A Beautiful Decoration.

A janesta formed one of the most attractive of the beautiful decorations in the Providence resbyterian church last Sabbath and on Easter he janesta is of the shrub variety, the stalk of which, six inches or so from the soil, spread out and up into a prolific number of intertwining branches, and these, in turn are lavished with pretty-shaped green leaves and innumerable yellow blossoms. The "tree" last Sabbath was decked with thousands and thousands of there leaves and flowers, after their own unique sort..

The janesta was a gift to the Easter decoration in the Providence Presbyterian church from Mrs. J. D. Von Storch, taken from her green houseses, where it had for several weeks been given special cultivation from her gardner, Mr.

A gratifying revival in athletic exercises is noticeable at the Scranton Athetic club, and many of the older mempers have not only become interested but a number of them have registered their children in the junior classes, and are taking a personal interest in their development. For several months past development. For several months past the classes have met three times a week, to benefit by the instruction of Prof. Victor Noth, who has had charge for a year past. So rapidly and well have the youngsters learned the various dumb-bell, wand, horse and parallel bar exercises and the numerous intricate drill movements, that it was decided to give a public exhibition, and this will take place on ednesday, April 23. The following excellent programme has been arranged:

Dumb-bell exercises, by small class from 5 to 10 years of age; wand exerrises, by senior class: back exercises by small class; weight lifting, between instructor and captain; horse and buck exercises, by seniors; individual parallel bar, by members of Scranton Athletic club; boxing, by two of senior lass; pyramid work, by seniors; tumbling, by members of S.
